

professor and head school of economics and finance

An outstanding opportunity exists for an exceptional candidate to lead QUT's School of Economics and Finance.

The School of Economics and Finance has a complement of 30 academic staff including four Professors. It has a strong emphasis on research and teaching in the areas of economics, econometrics and finance at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels. Reflecting the strong research emphasis of the School, it is currently home to 12 honours students and 15 PhD students.

This leadership position in the Faculty of Business is a critical appointment given the Faculty's commitment to our vision as a destination of choice for high quality staff and students. We are striving for excellence in real world teaching, research and service; deep engagement with the communities we serve; and the capacity of our graduates to work effectively in a changing and internationalised workplace.

The Faculty has reached its objectives of achieving international recognition with the world's leading accrediting bodies – AACSB, AMBA and EQUIS for the quality of its degree programs by working within a philosophy of continuous quality improvement.

With over 10,000 students and 350 staff, the Faculty provides a comprehensive range of programs preparing graduates for a wide range of employment and advancement opportunities.

The appointee will be an accomplished academic, a strong team builder and possess well-developed managerial, interpersonal and communication skills that support collaboration in innovation and proactive problem-solving.

An attractive remuneration package will be negotiated with the successful candidate.

Appointment will be fixed-term for five years with an option for renewal. New professors at QUT are eligible for a University grant to use on work-related projects.
